

He ran through the passage and into the meadow. The Wise Woman followed, smiling. She held something out to him – the second golden star.

“What did you say before you opened the door?” asked the Wise Woman.

“Eeeee,” said the Prince. “I felt fear.”

“eeeeee,” said the Wise Woman. “You felt fear and you mastered it. Keep this near your heart.”

And the Prince tucked his second golden star safely into his shirt pocket near his heart.
